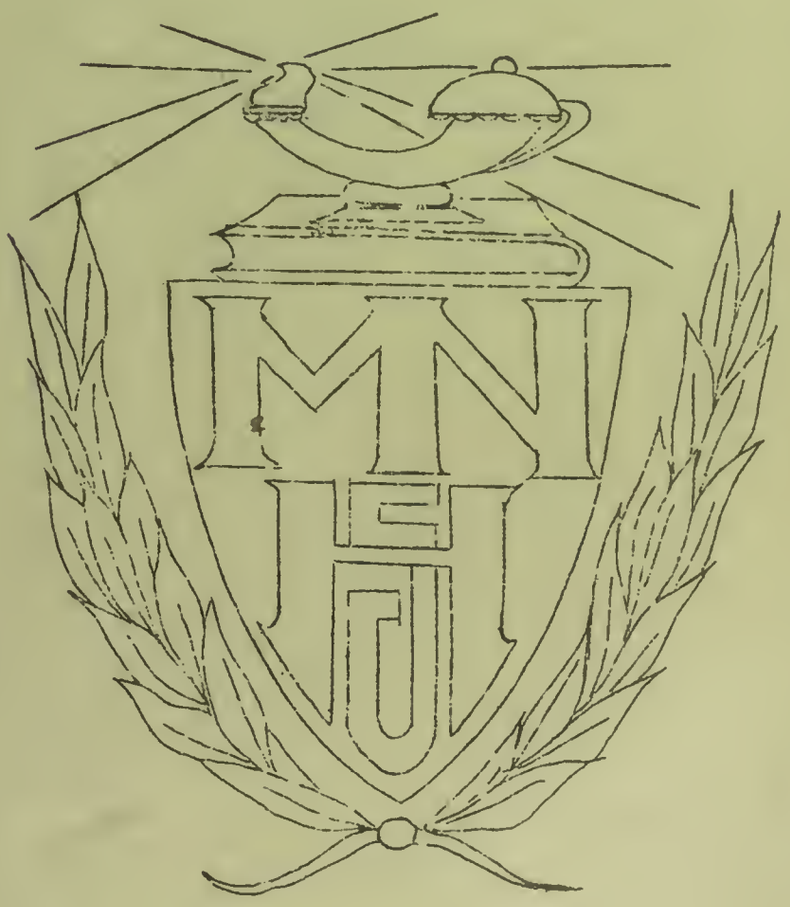
SENIOR YEAR BOOK 1933



The Class of '33 respectfully dedicates this YEAR BOOK to Mr. Harvey in appreciation of his efforts to make it a success.

TO OUR SUCCESSORS

During our school life almost every one of us is selected for some office. Year after year a different student is elected to each job. Each one of us handles his or her job a little differently than others do. Some loaf on the job; others take interest in their work and make their duties things to be well done and to be proud of.

We Seniors by this time have gained a fairly accurate knowledge of the character and abilities of each of our school-mates; we judge each other by the way we carry out the offices with which we are entrusted. So it is throughout life. We are judged by the way we bear our responsibility.

The chief aim of our school life is to build character. Many times we have been told that we cannot build character without accepting responsibility. Whenever anyone does not carry out the job for which he is responsible, he does himself inestimable harm.

Remember that when you take a school office you are not merely doing a favor to others. You are accepting for yourself a chance to make good--to enrich yourself forever.

CLASS OF '33

O U R F A C U L T Y

We as a class wish to thank all the teachers for their untiring cooperation with us during the past four years.

We want to thank Miss Lyster in doing her share in coaching the girls' athletics and filling our heads with ideas about History and French.

To Miss Kress we owe our success for the plays and the operettas, our Washington Trip, and our vague knowledge of the old writers and poets.

Although Miss Horn specializes in the typewriter, she also serves well as Mr. Worrall's secretary.

Mr. Worrall, it seems, cannot yet convince the Latineers that "a" is always pronounced "ah"; but we are thankful to him for his interest in our welfare.

Our athletic coach, Mr. Harvey, has taught us all we know about football, basketball, baseball and bookkeeping; it is to him we show our gratitude.

We owe our algebraic ability to none other than Mr. Shaw, the Physics expert, who also shines as Track Coach.

We cannot leave without giving a vote of thanks to Miss Pierce, our art teacher, and Mrs. Rodgers, our musical director.

We are indeed proud of having been instructed by such an efficient faculty, and we shall always remember their guiding advice in years to come.

CLASS WILL

We, the Class of 1933, do bequeath the following activities, talents and possessions, which we have so dearly fought for on our way through Marple-Newtown--

Mose leaves his big, big smile to Jane Elliott. Be sure to use it, Jane.

Emelie Coan's technique as a leading lady goes to Winnie Harlow. Here's hoping, Winnie!

Millie has consented to leave her magnetic candy-selling ability to Margaret MacLaren. My, how the candy will fly next year.

Susie Bowers wishes to bestow her lightning-like rapidity on the adding machine to Bob Douglas.

Rebecca Wallace wills her knowledge of the ways of the world to Peggy Longstreth. We hope she will find it useful.

To Francis Kunkle goes Dot Gorman's punch-making ability. No fair 3-point--2, Francis.

Jay leaves his talent as a pep-talker to Elza.

George Ortlip bestows his athletic ability upon Conjetta.

The Romance Room is bequeathed, with best wishes, to Kass from Archie.

Jimmy Hartin's dainty way of walking goes to Ruth Evert. Don't spoil the effect, Ruthie.

Joe Dean leaves his combination physics and chemistry ability to Frank. Don't blow up the Lab, Frank, is all we ask.

Marie's "rep" as a Latin shark goes to Broadie. Knock 'em dead, Broadie.

Hattie leaves those dancing feet to Dot McKinley.

Buck's dramatic ability goes to Mary Bonsall. Of course we never expect to see Mary wearing a mustache, but then you never can tell--

And last but not least Mearnsie leaves her quiet mouse-like ways to Johnny Schwenk. For goodness sake, Johnny, don't over do it.

(Note to all the Juniors--Take care of our dear old class-room, and be good to Mr. Harvey).

CLASS PROPHECY

On the day before Graduation we Seniors were gathered in our class-room for the last time. As we lingered on and on, a dark, foreign-looking man entered, carrying a bulky and intricate-looking machine. Without saying a word he handed each of us a card on which the following amazing information was printed--Professor Beppo and his Wonder Machine! Positively tells any future. Sees all! Knows all! (Senior Classes a Specialty).

Of course we wanted to know what would become of us after we left M. N., so we eagerly besought the Professor to "do his stuff."

After the Professor had made a few preparations, we darkened the room by pulling down the shades; then we took our seats and peered tensely into the gloom. We heard a slight click, and saw a ray of light pierce the darkness; at once a sort of "movie" appeared on the wall before us. The "Show" was on!

The first picture revealed Sue Bowers sitting at a desk in an office of the "Davidson Law Firm", situated in New York. Sue had become a well known secretary.

Next to flash upon the screen was a picture of Emelie Coan, conducting an orchestra, the largest in the country, in Radio City Music Hall.

Then before our eyes came the picture of Professor Dean, working in his great Research Laboratory in Chicago, still aiding the human race by his great research work.

Then to cross the screen was a picture of a stern looking lady, namely Mildred Doughten, conducting mathematics in the newly built Marple-Newtown High School.

Then to our horror we saw James Hartin, "the famous mountain climber," dangling on a rope half way up a large precipice.

When this picture was over we were much relieved to see Reese Hunter at the Hunter Poultry Farm, walking around among his large flocks of chickens and his employees, quietly and inwardly enjoying himself.

For an instant the screen was black, but then to our eyes came a picture of Dot Gorman holding "Mr." Junior on her knee while trying to dress his wiggleing body--happily married ever since her day of graduation.

At the end of the next picture we learned that Marple-Newtown High School was supplied with very efficient teachers as we saw Marie Kelly, "that great Latin Shark," at M. N. teaching Caesar's Gallic War to some bright looking Sophomores.

Then the smiling face of Lester Davidson was pictured before us. He was sitting at his desk in his office. "Mose" as known to us had become one of the most brilliant district attorneys that this country has known because of his great mental abilities.

The next flash takes us to the Pacific Coast, into Hollywood, where Hedwig Smith was putting her girls' chorus through the latest steps. "Hattie" has put out some of the greatest dancers from her Private School.

The next picture was one of a neat looking young lady, walking around among her patients. It took not a second look to see that it was Rebecca Wallace, going about helping the sick and lonely ones of that hospital.

A page of a newspaper appeared before us, telling us about the social events of the days. Nearby was the name of Jay Worrall, our classmate who had made good as social editor of a newspaper in New York.

The concluding picture flashed on the screen. It was the world famous sporting editor, George Ortlip, of the New York Red Sheet. George spouted out a long line of sports chatter a' la Husing. Joe Palooka was favored against the latest challenger to his crown. The Yanks will win the pennant, etc. etc. etc.

BASKET BALL TOURNAMENT

During the Basketball Season a tournament was sponsored by Mr. Harvey. Teams were entered from the 7th grade, both the A and B sections, also from the 8th, Freshmen, Sophomore, Junior, and Senior grades. After many hectic battles with a new man starring in each game the Seniors were victorious. The Seniors drew a "bye" in the first round. The first game that they played was with the Juniors who had defeated the Sophomores.

This game was hard fought through out, but the Seniors were not seriously threatened at any time, although the score was close during the entire game.

The finals in which the Seniors met the team of the 8th grade was also won by the Seniors. The 8th grade team had defeated the 7th grade and had also defeated the highly touted Freshmen team which had been expected to give the Senior team a fight for the title. But the 8th grade team, fighting every minute and playing on the ball every minute away above their heads, upset the Freshmen and so entered the finals. But here they met a crushing defeat at the hands of the smooth working Senior combination.

In this game the 8th grade started off fast, as in previous games, and scored six points before the Seniors had scored. But at the point the Seniors stopped their opponents and held them to five points the rest of the game, while they ran up 28 points.

The men that made up the Senior team were Archie Moore, George Ortlip, Jay Worrall, Lester Davidson, Reese Hunter, and James Hartin.

This tournament is a source of a great many things, and it is hoped for the sake of the school that these tournaments will be continued in the future.

FRESHMAN CLASS

It is hoped that this class will supply the athletic ability for Marple-Newtown during the next three years. There are many boys and girls in this class who have great futures before them if they will only do their best for dear old M. N. and we sincerely hope that they will. Remember, "Give to the World the best you have and the best will come back to you." Apply this for the glory of Marple Newtown. But do not devote all of your time to athletics. Remember lessons are more important than athletics.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

We hope that our "new Juniors" will do their share in making all scholastic undertakings a success; help Mr. Harvey in making basketball, football and baseball teams better. Cooperate with your teachers. Do this and you will leave high school with a record to be proud of.

JUNIOR CLASS

This class is ruled by girls or so it seems because of the large number of the "weaker sex" (?) in their class. Come on, boys, save the reputation of the men and graduate with high honors. We hope that you will study hard so that your graduating class will be M-N's largest.

SEVENTH-EIGHTH GRADES

Remember, "grades", that upon you depends the future of Marple Newtown in many branches. Work hard and give all that you can for this school.
